based on the concept of a physical system this book offers a new philosophical interpretation of classical mechanics and the special theory of relativity according to belkind s view the role of physical theory is to describe the motions of the parts of a physical system in relation to the motions of the whole this approach provides a new perspective into the foundations of physical theory where motions of parts and wholes of physical systems are taken to be fundamental prior to spacetime material properties and laws of motion he defends this claim with a constructive project deriving basic aspects of classical theories from the motions of parts and wholes this exciting project will challenge readers to reevaluate how they understand the structure of the physical world in which we live reflections on the metaphysics and epistemology of classification from a distinguished group of philosophers contemporary discussions of the success of science often invoke an ancient metaphor from plato s phaedrus successful theories should carve nature at its joints but is nature really jointed are there natural kinds of things around which our theories cut the essays in this volume offer reflections by a distinguished group of philosophers on a series of intertwined issues in the metaphysics and epistemology of classification the contributors consider such topics as the relevance of natural kinds in inductive inference the role of natural kinds in natural laws the nature of fundamental properties the naturalness of boundaries the metaphysics and epistemology of biological kinds and the relevance of biological kinds to certain questions in ethics carving nature at its joints offers both breadth and thematic unity providing a sampling of state of the art work in contemporary analytic philosophy that will be of interest to a wide audience of scholars and students concerned with classification
