responding to the increasing need for new and peaceful forms of emancipation stuart blaney offers a unique solution in the synergy between two pioneering strands of continental philosophy michael foucault s ideas on freedom and jacques rancière s ideas on equality building a dialogue between these two thinkers blaney presents new perspectives on their work and a clear picture that emancipation comes from everyday practices rather than any particular movement or revolution in exploring these combined views of equality and freedom blaney draws on some of the central facets of both concepts including revolution disagreement care for the self free speech and stoicism to put these ideas into a practical framework of real lived experience we are introduced to the figure of louis gabriel gauny the 19th century worker poet and self confessed plebeian philosopher gauny is a nexus for rancière s and foucault s ideas his life exemplifying a dual mode of existence in between conformity and political revolution this lived philosophy of equality and freedom shows the strong synergy between the two concepts with one reinforcing the other and strengthening their efficacy as forms of emancipatory practice this book is the first sustained investigation of the political dimension in the work of j g ballard a product of and reaction to the cultural socio economic moment commonly designated as the postmodern condition ballard s oeuvre is read as a continuous and developing meditation on the postmodern examining it specifically as an expression of late capitalism the book shows that at the heart of this meditation lies the question of resistance drawing on a wide range of concepts and ideas taken from the field of critical theory it argues that in the face of a world marked by an unprecedented expansion of capital in which modernity s grand narratives have been invalidated and in which received forms of political struggle have lost their effectiveness ballard s fiction commits itself to a deliberately irrational and extreme pataphysical thought in order to develop a new discourse of resistance against past readings that have construed ballard s writing as non political decadent or quietist the study thus reveals ballard as a thoroughly political author committed to a subversive politics in this way the book also constitutes a timely intervention in the ongoing discussion concerning the nature and state of the political michel foucault continues to be hugely influential his diagnoses challenge us to rethink crucial phenomena such as madness discipline the human sciences the state neoliberalism sexuality and subject formation based on his work in its entirety and with special emphasis on his many recently published lecture series this book provides an updated comprehensive and original account of his thought by reading foucault as a philosopher it offers an extensive systematic assessment and discussion of his unique conception of philosophical practice and brings a unifying trajectory in his work to light mathematics is a subject held in high esteem around the world yet the teaching and learning of mathematics is rarely viewed as good enough and many find the subject difficult to comprehend or engage with in manufacturing the mathematical child anna llewellyn asks some difficult questions in order to determine why this is the case and to question who it is that we allow to succeed at mathematics particularly within the context of neoliberalism where education is a product of the market by looking at the various sites of production llewellyn examines the ways that key discursive spaces produce very different expectations of what it means to do mathematics and demonstrates that these place various homogenised expectations upon children arguing that these are not natural but instead a reproduction of discursive norms the book demonstrates why some people fit these standardized ways of being and others do not using england as a case study and referring to other international contexts llewellyn argues that there is a functionality found within certain educational policy discourses and a romantic attachment to the natural child found within educational research neither of which can match what happens in the messy classroom as a result it becomes evident that exclusion from mathematics is inevitable for many children original and exciting this book will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students within the fields of mathematics education childhood studies policy studies and foucauldian or post structural analysis becoming subjects is an interdisciplinary reference for those who are working with or studying young people and sexuality looking at the educational discourses with which they are commonly associated this handbook explores the discourse within the field of educational leadership and management it provides a clear analysis of the current field as well as older foundational ideas and newer concepts which are beginning to permeate the discussion the field of educational leadership and management has long acknowledged that educational contexts include a variety of leaders beyond school principals and other school officials such as informal and middle level leaders by looking at the knowledge dynamic rather than a static knowledge base this handbook allows research to be presented in its multidimensional evolving reality hand in hand with the continuing drive to recruit international students to western universities goes an interest in student engagement however it is often unclear exactly what is meant by engagement this book goes beyond the policy rhetoric to provide a practice based explication of international student engagement and its enabling institutional conditions by utilising a social practice conceptual model the book explains the multiple dimensions of engagement that are often conflated in policy the antecedents to engagement the actions of engaging and the achievements and outcomes of engagement as a result the book is able to address issues such as how english comes to matter in international student academic practice the teaching and assessment approaches that promote international student engagement and the metacognitive cognitive and affective strategies that international students use to achieve academic and personal transformation
