feminist ethics and social and political philosophy theorizing the non ideal is a collection of feminist essays that self consciously develop non idealizing approaches to either ethics or social and political philosophy or both characterizing feminist ethics and social and political philosophy as marked by a tendency to be non idealizing serves to thematize the volume while still allowing the essays to be diverse enough to constitute a representation of current work in the fields of feminist ethics and social and political philosophy each of the essays either serves as an instance of work that is rooted in actual non ideal conditions and that as such is able to consider any of the many questions relevant to subordinated people or reflects theoretically on the significance of non idealizing as an approach to feminist ethics or social and political philosophy the volume will be of interest to feminist scholars from all disciplines to academics who are ethicists and political philosophers as well as to graduate students this volume explores urgent questions surrounding the bidirectional relationship between feminist philosophy and emerging technologies it underlines the exigency of feminist philosophical reflections on the design use and understanding of emerging technologies and at the same time accentuates how emerging technologies can uniquely impact the shape of future feminist critique and intervention while feminist philosophers have attended to problems posed by a few specific technologies that emerged in the previous century especially reproductive technologies broader philosophical questions concerning the challenges various new technologies present to feminism have yet to receive the sustained critical attention they deserve feminist philosophy and emerging technologies responds to this problem it is divided into two sections section 1 provides theoretical considerations about the links between feminist philosophy and philosophy of technology broadly construed by developing against the background of emerging technologies methodological approaches and guidance for bringing those two fields of philosophical research together section 2 is dedicated to analyses of specific emerging technologies and user trends their relation to extant structures of oppression and to bringing to the fore various ways in which a feminist philosophy of technology can impact the design of current and future technologies feminist philosophy and emerging technologies is an excellent resource for scholars and advanced students working in feminist philosophy philosophy of technology ethics political philosophy feminist theory gender and cultural studies and science and technology studies presenting essays rich with her own personal experiences philosopher linda a bell examines not only her own life but also problems arising from ways that living affects thinking she reflects on her own experience in order to challenge a variety of provocative claims including that affirmative action harms those it is designed to help that suicide while perhaps acceptable for some with fatal diseases is otherwise a manifestation of mental illness that women are to blame for male violence toward them if they don't leave the relationships that a low profile is the best path to success for women in academe that women are treated fairly in academe perhaps even better than men and that political correctness is a recent and aberrant move away from respect for freedom of speech although drawing from experience as she creates and critiques theory bell argues against the view that it is the bedrock of theory drawing attention to the vexed relationship between feminist theory and philosophy is feminist philosophy philosophy demonstrates the spectrum of significant work being done at this contested boundary the volume offers clear statements by seventeen distinguished scholars as well as a full range of philosophical approaches it also presents feminist philosophers in conversation both as feminists and as philosophers making the book accessible to a wide audience
