Problem Systemic Disadvantage in the Canadian Justice System The overrepresentation of racialized and Indigenous people within the Canadian criminal justice system is undeniable and deeply troubling Research consistently highlights significant disparities at every stage from arrest and charging to sentencing and incarceration Overpolicing and Racial Profiling Studies show that racialized individuals particularly Black and Indigenous people are subjected to more frequent police stops searches and arrests than their white counterparts even when controlling for factors like crime rates This is indicative of racial profiling a practice that undermines trust in law enforcement and perpetuates systemic inequalities A 2022 report by the Ontario Human Rights Commission for example highlighted the ongoing issue of racial profiling by Toronto Police reinforcing the need for significant reform Bias in the Justice Process Implicit bias within the justice system often unconsciously impacts decisions at every stage This bias can manifest in harsher sentencing for individuals from marginalized groups even when facing similar charges as their nonmarginalized peers A 2021 study by the University of British Columbia found significant disparities in sentencing for Indigenous offenders compared to nonIndigenous offenders highlighting the impact of systemic racism on judicial outcomes

Access to Legal Representation Limited access to quality legal representation is another significant barrier to justice particularly for individuals from lowincome backgrounds This lack of access can lead to unfair outcomes with marginalized individuals often pleading guilty even if innocent due to lack of resources and effective legal counsel

2 The Impact of Systemic Inequalities Socioeconomic factors like poverty lack of education and inadequate housing disproportionately affect marginalized communities These factors can contribute to higher crime rates creating a vicious cycle of disadvantage that perpetuates inequality within the criminal justice system The ongoing effects of colonization continue to impact Indigenous communities leading to higher rates of incarceration and poorer outcomes within the system

Solution A Multipronged Approach to Equitable Justice Addressing the systemic issues plaguing the Canadian justice system requires a multifaceted approach that targets the root causes of inequality This includes Promoting Police Accountability and Reform Implementing stricter guidelines on police conduct investing in antibias training and establishing independent oversight bodies are crucial steps to reducing racial profiling and improving policecommunity relations Body worn cameras and improved data collection on police interactions can increase transparency and accountability
