germany invaded the netherlands in the spring of 1940 life in occupied holland was hideous enough but for the dutch the worst was yet to come after the western allies lost the battle of arnhem in september 1944 the dutch provinces north of the rhine and waal rivers were in the hands of the germans and to the south fighting raged for months in the winter of 1944 45 just as other parts of europe were being liberated the dutch seemed forsaken by the allies who bypassed holland on their drive to berlin that last winter of the war with its severe food and fuel shortages was a terrible one for the dutch people who also suffered from episodes of nazi terrorism in some provinces there was nothing to eat but tulip bulbs and sugar beets and eighteen thousand dutch civilians actually starved to death henri van der zee who was ten years old that winter remembers what happened to his people a pioneering study on the causes and consequences of the dutch famine of 1944 1945 in a chilling history renowned historian james holland deftly relates italy's dark forgotten years during the second world war the campaign in italy was the most destructive fought in europe a long bitter and highly attritional conflict that raged up the country's mountainous leg for frontline troops casualty rates at cassino and along the notorious gothic line were as high as they had been on the western front in the first world war there were further similarities too blasted landscapes rain and mud and months on end with the front line barely moving and while the allies and germans were fighting it out through the mountains the italians were engaging in bitter battles too partisans were carrying out a crippling resistance campaign against the german troops but also battling the fascists forces as well in what soon became a bloody civil war around them innocent civilians tried to live through the carnage terror and anarchy while in the wake of the allied advance horrific numbers of impoverished and starving people were left to pick their way through the ruins of their homes and country in the german occupied north there were more than 700 civilian massacres by german and fascist troops in retaliation for partisan activities while in the south many found themselves forced into making terrible and heart rending decisions in order to survive although known as a land of beauty and for the richness of its culture Italy's suffering in 1944 1945 is now largely forgotten Italy's sorrow by James Holland is the first account of the conflict there to tell the story from all sides and to include the experiences of soldiers and civilians alike offering extensive original research it weaves together the drama and tragedy of that terrible year including new perspectives and material on some of the most debated episodes to have emerged from World War II

In this collection senior scholars explore the transition from war to uneasy peace how and why the war ended as it did whether a different resolution was possible and if the ensuing cold war was inevitable

Today Italy is a land of beauty and prosperity but in 1944 45 it had become a place of nightmares a land of violence war and destruction James Holland's ground breaking account expertly documents the German advance to the stalemate of the Gothic line and a segment of Italian history that has been largely neglected

Contains over three hundred alphabetically arranged entries that examine the impact of war on young people around the world at different times in history from the thirty years war 1618 1648 through the late twentieth century
