ask what is true in the memoir and the memoirist critic and memoirist thomas larson explores the craft and purpose of new revised and updated edition of the bestselling book on writing memoir universally praised jesmyn ward s men we reaped confirmed her ascendancy as a writer of both fiction and nonfiction her southern requiem securing its place on bestseller and best books of the year lists with honors and awards pouring in from around the country jesmyn s memoir shines a light on the community she comes from in the small town of delisle mississippi a place of quiet beauty and fierce attachment here in the space of four years she lost five young men dear to her including her beloved brother lost to drugs accidents murder and suicide their deaths were seemingly unconnected yet their lives had been connected by identity and place and as jesmyn dealt with these losses she came to a staggering truth these young men died because of who they were and the place they were from because certain disadvantages breed a certain kind of bad luck because they lived with a history of racism and economic struggle the agonizing reality commanded jesmyn to write at last their true stories and her own men we reaped opens up a parallel universe yet it points to problems whose roots are woven into the soil under all our feet this indispensable american memoir is destined to become a classic since the early 1990s tens of thousands of memoirs by celebrities and unknown people have been published sold and read by millions of american readers the memoir boom as the explosion of memoirs on the market has come to be called has been welcomed vilified and dismissed in the popular press but is there really a boom in memoir production in the united states if so what is causing it are memoirs all written by narcissistic hacks for an unthinking public or do they indicate a growing need to understand world events through personal experiences this study seeks to answer these questions by examining memoir as an industrial product like other products something that publishers and booksellers help to create these popular texts become part of mass culture where they are connected to public events the genre of memoir and even genre itself ceases to be an empty classification category and becomes part of social action and consumer culture at the same time from james frey s controversial a million little pieces to memoirs about bartending iran the liberation of dachau computer hacking and the impact of 9 11 this book argues that the memoir boom is more than a publishing trend it is becoming the way american readers try to understand major events in terms of individual experiences the memoir boom is one of the ways that citizenship as a category of belonging between private and public spheres is now articulated
